Body of Woman Found; Death Caused by Cold

Kerhonkson Resident Was Reported Missing Nov. 1—Coroner Is Called

The body of Mrs. Amanda Newman, widow of Arthur Newman of Kerhonkson, was found near the Rondout creek at Kerhonkson Saturday noon. Missing since Nov. 1, Mrs. Newman, about 77, died of exposure, Coroner Arthur C. Chipp reported.

The aged woman's body was found by Edgar Marshall, who with his employer, Lorin Davis, was shucking corn in a rented field bordering the creek off Green street in Kerhonkson. He notified Coroner Chipp about 12:10 p. m. Saturday.

After an autopsy performed under the direction of Dr. Herbert Derman, death was listed by the coroner as accidental, caused by exposure. An investigation was conducted by the coroner with Sheriff Cluett Schantz, Deputy Irving Gillman and District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn.

Last Seen at Store
Mrs. Newman was reported missing on Nov. 1, when Deputy Sheriff Gillman was told by Andrew Vandemark that she was last seen when she left to go to Black's hardware store in Kerhonkson, Coroner Chipp said.

Funeral services will be at the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Rev. John P. Fromm of Kerhonkson Federated Church will officiate. Burial will be in Wallkill Cemetery, Middletown.

Pleasure Boat Catches Fire, Is Brought to City

A former submarine chaser sailing the Hudson as a pleasure yacht caught fire near the city early today and pulled into the Rondout creek for action by local firemen.

Fire headquarters was notified at 5:15 a. m., by telephone, that the boat, owned by J. Waldron Baylis, of Oyster Bay, was on fire at Gill's dock on East Strand.

Men and equipment from Cornell and central stations responded and the blaze between deck timbers was quenched with a hydrant stream. Decking was removed on both sides of the hatchway leading to the boiler room. Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford was in charge.

The fire apparently started near a pipe which extended through the deck timbers. Firemen said one of the women aboard was awakened at about 5 a. m. by the odor of smoke. The women went ashore to notify firemen while the men stayed aboard and fought the fire.

The owner of the boat said he had experienced similar trouble a short distance south of Albany, but it was thought then that the fire was thoroughly quenched, firemen said.

Asks Members Work For Small Issues With Good Will Toward Peace

Paris, Nov. 12 (AP)—Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden called on the Russians today to put aside major world issues temporarily and seek a step-by-step solution to the cold war.

"Let us grasp the definite and limited problems, and work for their practical solution," Eden said in a conciliatory speech before the United Nations General Assembly.

"That is the real road to peace. That is the way to make a fresh start," he declared.

Eden's speech, his first in the UN since the founding conference at San Francisco in 1945, was notable for its mild tone and lack of attacks on the Russians.

He urged all UN members—including the Soviet Union—to work from the small issues to the great "with real good will."

Backing up U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson's policy statement last week on every point, Eden cited the British-French-American disarmament proposals as an example of how the east-west disputants could work from the small issues to the large.

"We suggest," he declared, that disarmament "should begin with the less important categories of armed forces and armaments, then move on to those that are more important and secret, and therefore more difficult to handle."

"The sooner we can agree on the simpler categories, the sooner we shall have confidence to tackle more complex tasks."

Appeals to Vishinsky
Eden appealed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to reconsider his scornful rejection of the western proposals. The Russian had submitted, instead, his own disarmament plan calling for a world arms conference.

Eden also urged, as Acheson had before him, that agreement be reached to:

1. End the war in Korea;
2. Reunite Germany through free democratic elections;
3. Give Austria a treaty ending the occupation by France, Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States;
4. Admit Italy to the United Nations.

Eden implied that the time was not yet ripe for a conference of President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Stalin and French Premier Rene Pleven, as French President Vincent Auriol suggested last week.

Must Create Climate
First, the foreign secretary told the assembly, the climate must be created through sincere attempts to settle limited problems "in which the kind of moving appeal which Monsieur Auriol made to us . . . can meet its full response."

"Preparation, conference and agreement: That should be the order of our endeavor. Starting from the small issues and working to the great. Steady pursuit, with confidence."

Father Demands To Know Why Son Was Denied Honor

Parent Says He Fears Criticism Kept His Boy From Top Award

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Nov. 12 (AP)—Eugene R. Guild, a retired World War One army captain, said today he fears his criticism of administration policy was responsible for his son not receiving the Congressional medal of honor.

The Glenwood Springs rancher, who served in China and the Philippines, said he wrote President Truman Nov. 1. He asked if President Truman's failure to award the medal to his dead son was a "reprimand against those who criticize you."

"No comment," Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short said last night in Key West, Fla., where the President is vacationing.

In his letter to Mr. Truman, Guild said his son, 25-year-old Marine Lt. John Guild, and another officer, Lt. Henry Alfred Commiskey, fought side by side during a battle for Hill 85 near Inchon in Korea. Commiskey survived and was awarded the medal of honor—the nation's highest award. Guild died Sept. 20, 1950, and a Navy Cross was posthumously awarded.

Releases Letter
Guild, in releasing his letter to reporters late Saturday, emphasized that he is not challenging Lt. Commiskey's right to the medal.

The letter said, in part: "This is to ask you about evidences of political tampering with awards for the heroism of our fighting men in Korea."

"In the now famous capture of Hill 85 near Inchon, two young Marines led their attacking platoons through a barrage of fire (Continued on Page 16, Col. 2)

South Governors Scorn 'Beat Truman' Movement

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 12 (AP)—Southern governors turned to the politically red-hot subject of civil rights today. Some Dixie leaders stiffened their opposition to any Democratic "Beat Truman" campaign in next year's presidential election.

Outspoken resistance to a states rights Democrat revolt was one of the surprise developments in the conference as pro-Truman forces stole the first day limelight from the President's political foes.

This stand against a revolt was certain to receive strong backing tonight from House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas. He will address the governors at their annual state dinner, Rayburn, a staunch Democrat, is reported ready to call for party loyalty from all southern Democrats regardless of who the nominee might be.

The civil rights issue, the main reason some southerners bolted the party three years ago, was raised first by Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi. He was the States Rights candidate for vice-president in 1948.

Allies Say Reds Stall Truce Talks

Insistence on Phoney Cease-Fire Line Is Subterfuge, Strong Statement Says

Quotes Hamlet
General Hodges Declares There Is Method in Red Madness

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 12 (AP)—Allied truce negotiators in strong words today accused the Communists of insisting on a phoney cease-fire line merely to stall the armistice talks.

After the subcommittees had wrangled for four hours and 15 minutes, an allied spokesman said they were no closer to an agreement on the thorny buffer zone issue. They will meet again in Panmunjom at 11 a. m. Tuesday (9 p. m., EST Monday)—their 20th session.

Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges, chairman of the two-member UN command subcommittee, minced no words in telling the Communist negotiators:

"You intend to establish a pre-sumptive demarcation line and demilitarized zone, which will release you of any necessity to settle the remaining items of the (armistice) agenda with speed and equity."

"You want to establish a spurious line and zone which will provide you with the leisure and freedom to continue delaying the conference."

Ask Line as Priority
The Reds want to fix a cease-fire line before taking up any other item on the agenda. The UN command insists that the line follow the war front at the time all other armistice terms are agreed upon.

Hodges quoted Shakespeare in brushing off a Communist claim that their method of determining a cease-fire line is the only scientific one.

He told Red negotiators he thought this quotation from "Hamlet" applied: "There is method in his madness."

Brig. Gen. William Nuckolls, the official UN command spokesman, said the Communists hinted "pretty broadly" that after a cease-fire line was fixed, the next step would be withdrawal of all troops from the buffer zone.

Cites Red Hopes
"The Communists have hopes that the traditional American impatience will overcome our better judgment," Nuckolls said.

Under questioning by UN correspondents, Nuckolls refused to be drawn into an admission that the negotiations are deadlocked.

"The house is continuing," he said. "The UN command continues to have hope for a prompt and complete military armistice."

Proposals advanced by both sides were identical in many respects. Both called for establishment of a buffer zone.

Development of our educational institutions."

Ashmore added: "The practical problem before the south, then, is to preserve social segregation while at the same time meeting the conditions . . . which demand that full civil liberties and full equality of opportunity be extended to all citizens without discrimination."

Both Wright and Ashmore presented their views in addresses prepared for delivery before the conference.

Truman, Churchill to Meet In Washington in January; Money Expected to Be Point

Peron Returns Anew to Rule For Six Years

Buenos Aires, Nov. 12 (AP)—A sweeping majority apparently returned President Juan D. Peron to power as Argentina's ruler for another six years in an orderly, record-breaking election yesterday.

Leaders of the Radical party—main opposition group—said this morning Peron's victory was assured on the basis of government figures and on the unofficial partial vote count.

With about one-third of the votes counted, the Interior Ministry announced early today that Peron had a total of 1,503,161 votes to 719,253 for Dr. Ricardo Balbin, Radical party candidate.

The pro-government press hailed Peron's victory as a vote of confidence by the people. It said his final majority will be bigger than his first election in 1946, when he polled 55 per cent.

Radical leaders declared that women, voting for the first time in Argentine general election, were the main instrument in the Peron victory.

Some Irregularities
The opposition claimed there had been some irregularities in the vote counting. They said that, according to their own count, at least five and possibly seven of their candidates won congressional seats in the capital, which sends 30 deputies to congress.

There were no other opposition complaints of irregularities, but radical leaders reiterated charges that the Peronistas defrauded them during the pre-election campaign by not permitting the opposition equal campaign facilities.

Reports by the Interior Ministry and the Information Undersecretariat gave no hint of the way the congressional elections were going. They also omitted the number of votes cast for the Communists, Socialists, Conservatives and other minor parties.

Orders Voting
Peron in one of his pre-election speeches ordered his followers to vote for the full roster of Peronista candidates to give him strong support in congress.

A record number of voters—possibly 6,000,000—showed up at the polls, with women outnumbering the men. Forty-seven women, all Peronistas, are seeking election to the House of Deputies (Congress). Senora Eva Peron, slitting wife of the president, heads the powerful Peronista Women's Party.

Some 70,000 army, navy and air force men, who kept order yesterday, will continue to guard the ballot boxes until the final counting, which starts Thursday and lasts about 10 days.

They had made the trip home by bus.

The survey indicated that a woman might shrug off the doldrums if she wore a yellow dress. Bright red also was listed as a pepper-upper.

Woman Arrested In Death of Son

Mother Had Drinks, Slept in Car With Children, Motor Running

Brightwaters, Nov. 12 (AP)—A Long Island woman was arrested on a second degree manslaughter charge early today in connection with the accidental death of her three-year-old son, attributed tentatively to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police said the prisoner, Mrs. Barbara Hrostoski, 35, told of having a few drinks and of sleeping in the family automobile with her two children while the motor was running.

The boy, Joseph, died last night in Meadowbrook hospital at East Meadow.

After being booked at the state police barracks here, the woman was scheduled for arraignment today, an autopsy was expected to be completed by the time of the arraignment.

Story Put Together
State troopers and Nassau and Suffolk county authorities said they pieced together this story after questioning Mrs. Hrostoski, a nurse.

She started out with the children in the car Thursday from the family home at Levittown, Nassau county, and drove to Bay Shore, Suffolk county. After she stopped for something to eat and a few drinks, she drove inland in Suffolk county and pulled over to the side of the road.

Mrs. Hrostoski and the children fell asleep there for three or four hours. The mother and children felt sick when they awoke, and she drove home later on Thursday.

The mother recovered quickly. The woman and her husband, Joseph, administered to the children on Friday. But both were admitted to the hospital Saturday.

Rome Papers Hint At Soviet Action

Claim Is Bruno Pontecorvo Jailed Because Reds Feared Spying

Rome, Nov. 12 (AP)—Two Rome newspapers have come up with a surprise angle to the mystery of Bruno Pontecorvo. They claim the Russians have jailed the missing British atom scientist in the belief he may have been spying Soviet atomic secrets to President Truman.

The papers, Il Tempo and Momento Sera, quoted unidentified Russian sources in Stockholm. The Italian-born Pontecorvo disappeared—presumably behind the Iron Curtain—in October, 1950, while vacationing in Europe with his family.

The papers said the Russians, fearing the United States had a spy among their top atom scientists, had nabbed Pontecorvo in the belief he may have been the source of information on which President Truman based his announcements of atomic explosions in the Soviet Union.

The White House has reported three atomic blasts in Russia.

Heard No Rumors
Police and officials in Helsinki, Finland, where Pontecorvo was last traced before the trail grew cold, said they had heard no rumors of his arrest from Russia or any other source.

The Rome newspaper story gave the Pontecorvo mystery a new twist. It has been generally felt that he was a top-level spy for Russia who had skipped to the Soviet Union with valuable western atomic secrets.

Several days ago a former high official of China's Sinking province reported from Cairo that Pontecorvo was a key scientist in a "huge atomic stronghold" that he said Russia is setting up in the central Asiatic province.

Conference Will Not Touch on French or Russians, Belief Is Among Observers

Might Give Talk

Speculation Is Congress Might Hear Speech by Anglo Premier

Key West, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain are going to meet in Washington in January.

The meeting was announced at a news conference yesterday by Presidential Secretary Joseph Short with apparent casualness.

Short was telling reporters at a news conference of how the President got up early Sunday and walked outside the naval submarine station where he has his quarters, and of how he swam and sunbathed at the naval submarine station.

Suddenly, a reporter asked about a story, by John M. Hightower of the Associated Press, that Churchill is expected to visit Washington early in January for talks with the President.

"Quite probably, the prime minister will be in Washington some time in January," Short said.

There was no indication whatsoever that the conference, certain to be delayed until after Mr. Truman has submitted his "state of the union" budget and economic messages to Congress, will involve either the French or the Russians.

French President Auriol has suggested a meeting of President Truman and the British, Russian and French heads of state to help ease international tension.

Fact Generally Known
Ever since the British election campaigns that sent Churchill back into control of the British government, it has been a generally known fact that Churchill would re-new his old acquaintance with Mr. Truman if returned to power.

No matter what the two discuss, nothing will exceed in importance British need for financial aid.

Churchill, Short said, has had an exchange of messages with the President.

He added that he knew of no plans to include Russian Premier Stalin or French Prime Minister Rene Plevin in the discussions.

There was speculation that Churchill might address a joint session of Congress.

The Churchill-Truman meeting, apparently strictly a British idea, will bring two old friends face-to-face for the fourth time.

Possible Proposals
Churchill, Presidential aides believe, will propose:

1. A closer partnership between the United States and Great Britain, which would involve not only frequent meetings with President Truman, but even more frequent meetings between Secretary of State Acheson and Foreign Minister Eden.
2. Substantial financial help from the United States (running into the billions) to help combat the English economic crisis.
3. The United States give England a greater voice in the development of foreign policy involving both governments, possibly including more say-so in atomic policy.

Whatever the two may agree upon, there was no assurance of Congressional approval.

Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee said he hopes Churchill will not seek additional money from this country, adding that "our own people have an excessive load of taxation to bear."

Dawson, wife of White House aide Donald Dawson, is leaving the agency "of her own volition" next month. Dawson was named by a Senate subcommittee last spring as being one of a group which it said tried to influence RFC loan policies. Mrs. Dawson was called before the committee for questioning about agency files which showed up in the White House. Symington, who spoke last night on CBS television interview, said Mrs. Dawson is no longer in charge of the files.

Roosevelt, another delegate, pinned the carnation on his lapel and wished him many happy returns of the day.

Allies Say Reds
ment of a cease-fire line along the battle front with a buffer zone 2 1/2 miles wide and creation of a special committee to determine the exact location of the buffer zone, based on the line of battle contact. Both proposals also suggested that the full five-man truce delegations move on to the next agenda item in the meantime. The only point unsettled is the matter of timing—should the cease-fire line be set first, as the Communists propose, or established after an armistice is reached.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN negotiator, made it clear in a statement Sunday that the allies will accept no proposal which would make it impossible to maintain military pressure on Communist troops while the armistice talks continue. Joy also indicated the UN command will insist on iron-clad arrangements to prevent a Red troop buildup after the armistice goes into effect. The question of troop strength, including inspection behind the battle lines, will come up if and when the buffer zone issue is settled. Other items on the agenda include the exchange of prisoners of war and recommendations to respective governments regarding the withdrawal of troops from Korea.

Proclamation

The first Young Men's Christian Associations of North America were founded in the United States and Canada during the months of November and December, 1851. In the succeeding century the name YMCA has become a byword for good deeds inspired by the divine influence of religion. The "Y" movement has done untold good and has meant so much to the hundreds of thousands of men and boys who have benefited by its activities.

One of the reasons for this notable and heart-warming record is that YMCA throughout the tumultuous changes of 10 crowded decades has never compromised its high purposes. The steadfastness and devotion of succeeding generations of YMCA officials has maintained its ideals on the highest level. This loyalty is responsible for the success which is reflected in the total of 1,688 YMCA associations now existing in the United States alone. Of this number 132 are in New York state. It is remarkable that membership in this centennial year numbers nearly 2,000,000.

It is well that the proud achievements of the Young Men's Christian Associations be publicly recognized. Now, therefore, I, Thomas E. Dewey, governor of the state of New York, do hereby proclaim the period of November 11-18, 1951, as YMCA Week in New York state. I urge all the people of our state to take part in the many special activities planned for this period.

Given under my hand and the Privy Seal of the state at the Capitol in the city of Albany this 24th day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-one.

(Signed) THOMAS E. DEWEY.

Sailor Is Arrested

Rabat, French Morocco, Nov. 12 (AP)—Police have arrested an Austrian sailor who survived the sinking of international sportsman Freddy McEvoy's yacht and are holding him on murder charges stemming from a killing in Austria several years ago. Officials said they acted after receiving an arrest warrant and extradition demand for Walter Premxmer, 32, chief mechanic on the McEvoy yacht. He is wanted, they said, in connection with a killing in Krentenburgh, Austria. McEvoy, his wife and four others died in the wreck of the yacht last Tuesday off the Moroccan coast. Premxmer, who swam ashore to safety, was one of three survivors who told how McEvoy died a hero trying to save his wife.

To Take Over Project

Tel Aviv, Israel, Nov. 12 (AP)—Israel plans to take over the dormant, British-owned potash concession in the Dead Sea as a semi-nationalized project, the Labor party newspaper Davar reports, allowing the British to continue as investors. Davar said the government—apparently anxious to avoid the sort of squabble that arose over the oil nationalization law—rejected leftist demands for immediate full nationalization of the firm of Palestine Potash, Ltd. Instead, the paper said, it will offer British shareholders a chance to participate with Israel.

Will Leave Agency

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said last night that Mrs. A. Dawson, wife of White House aide Donald Dawson, is leaving the agency "of her own volition" next month. Dawson was named by a Senate subcommittee last spring as being one of a group which it said tried to influence RFC loan policies. Mrs. Dawson was called before the committee for questioning about agency files which showed up in the White House. Symington, who spoke last night on CBS television interview, said Mrs. Dawson is no longer in charge of the files.

Austin Has Birthday

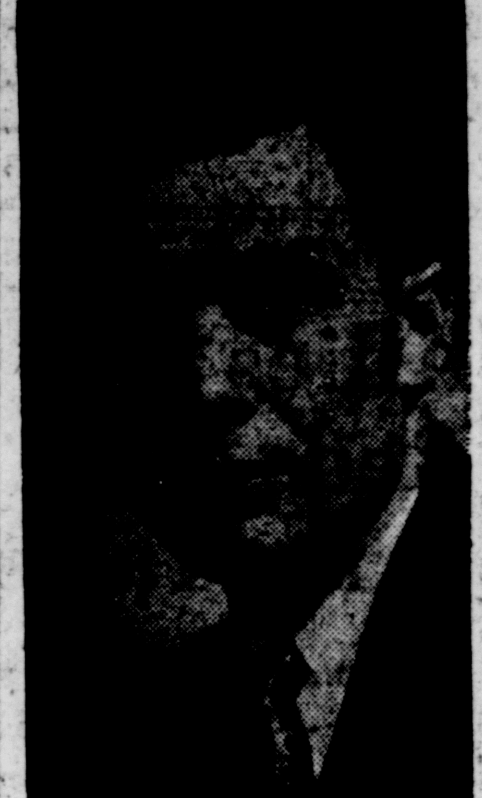

Paris, Nov. 12 (AP)—American Delegate Warren R. Austin celebrated his 74th birthday today by wearing a bright green tie, a brilliant red carnation and working as usual in the UN General Assembly. The permanent delegate, No. 2 man on the U. S. team here, was given a big round of applause at the delegation meeting this morning. Then Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, another delegate, pinned the carnation on his lapel and wished him many happy returns of the day.

Allies Say Reds

ment of a cease-fire line along the battle front with a buffer zone 2 1/2 miles wide and creation of a special committee to determine the exact location of the buffer zone, based on the line of battle contact. Both proposals also suggested that the full five-man truce delegations move on to the next agenda item in the meantime. The only point unsettled is the matter of timing—should the cease-fire line be set first, as the Communists propose, or established after an armistice is reached.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN negotiator, made it clear in a statement Sunday that the allies will accept no proposal which would make it impossible to maintain military pressure on Communist troops while the armistice talks continue. Joy also indicated the UN command will insist on iron-clad arrangements to prevent a Red troop buildup after the armistice goes into effect. The question of troop strength, including inspection behind the battle lines, will come up if and when the buffer zone issue is settled. Other items on the agenda include the exchange of prisoners of war and recommendations to respective governments regarding the withdrawal of troops from Korea.

The annual rate for the first nine months of this year, as reported yesterday by the Commerce Department, was $248,000,000,000 compared with $220,300,000,000 for the same period in 1950. Personal income includes wage and salary receipts, net incomes of proprietorships and partnerships (farm and non-farm), as well as dividends and interest, rents received by landlords, and other types of individual income.

Nussberger, a retired embroiderer, was quoted as saying he hit Miss O'Mara with a bottle as a result of an argument during a drinking bout.

Taft-Eisenhower Issue Splits Open GOP in Places

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—The prospect of a battle between Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination appeared today to have split several state Republican organizations wide open.

Although Eisenhower has made no public announcement that he is available, he already has developed strong support among Republican national committee members, state chairmen and governors in every section of the country.

Taft, an announced candidate, led the general 42 to 25 among party officials willing to express their preference for a nominee in a weekend Associated Press poll. Significantly, perhaps, 80 officials said they either hadn't made up their minds or wouldn't disclose their decision.

69 Wouldn't Guess
In the same group of GOP workers, totaling 147, 54 believe Eisenhower will become a candidate and 24 do not. Sixty-nine didn't want to guess one way or the other.

The Taft and Eisenhower strength overlapped in some cases and threatened stiff state battles if the general becomes an avowed candidate.

Texas, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Maine, Delaware, Florida and Wisconsin represent possible battlegrounds. Republican officials in those states who usually are the strongest to say about the makeup of convention delegations appeared divided in their sentiments.

Taft goes into Pennsylvania for a speech at Harrisburg tomorrow. Senator Duff (R-Pa.), most active advocate of the proposed Eisenhower candidacy, will invade Louisiana for campaigning in New Orleans the same day. Taft counts Louisiana as one of his strongholds in the nomination race.

Pennsylvania Disagreement
In Pennsylvania, Gov. John S. Fine and State Chairman, M. Harvey Taylor disagree with Duff in the latter's contention that Eisenhower is available. Neither of the state officials had endorsed any candidate yet.

G. Mason Owlett, Pennsylvania National Committeeman, said he couldn't tell from what the general said whether he would be a candidate. Owlett not committed to anyone publicly, said there is some sentiment developing in the state for Taft and Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor who now is president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Duff had his troubles trying to organize the Eisenhower campaign in Texas last week and was accused by Henry D. Taylor, GOP National Committeeman, with attempting to undercut him in his job.

Zweifel already has said that "Senator Robert Taft and Gen. Douglas MacArthur are the team that can best do the job for the Republican party and the nation as a whole." He has also named Stassen, Senator Duff (R-Ill.) and Gov. Earl Warren of California as presidential caliber.

Split in Kentucky

There apparently is a split among Kentucky Republicans with J. Ross Todd and Mrs. Stanley Pace, the National Committee members, in the Taft camp while State Chairman Jim Park is reported favoring Eisenhower.

Florida Republicans are badly divided.

C. C. Spades, national committeeman, said he hasn't made up his mind whom to support. But Wesley E. Garrison, a state committeeman representing the Miami area which has the largest Republican vote, said flatly "I wouldn't want Eisenhower." He thinks Taft is "a good man."

The two Massachusetts Senators, Lodge and Saltonstall, are plugging Eisenhower. Charles E. Howard, the national committeewoman, may be on that side. However, Sinclair Weeks, the committeeman, is counted as leaning toward Taft as is Rep. Joe Martin, the House minority leader.

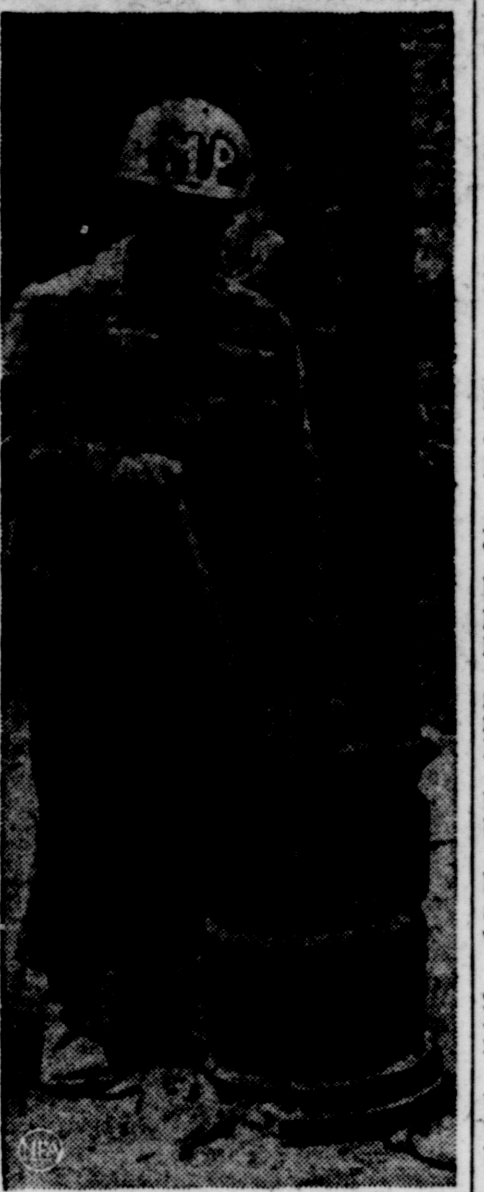

Maine's Senator Brewster is one of Taft's chief lieutenants and counts national committeewoman Inez Chase on his side. However, Senator Margaret Chase Smith and Gov. Frederick G. Payne are more likely to be found in Eisenhower's corner.

Delaware's state chairman, Clair J. Killoran, is openly for Eisenhower but Mrs. Frank G. Tallman, the national committeewoman, hasn't made up her mind and said she admired Taft "tremendously."

Of 12 persons most likely to be selected as delegates to next year's convention in Delaware, eight are reported to favor Taft and one backs Stassen.

In Wisconsin, National Committeeman C. L. Phillip and Tom Coleman, former state finance chairman, are openly for Taft. Gov. Walter J. Kohler Jr., hasn't said but is generally regarded as leaning toward Eisenhower.

If the weather holds out, he said, at least two strips of concrete on the west side of the underpass will be joined with the completed east side section. It was announced earlier that the street will be opened to traffic for the winter whether all concrete work is finished or not.

KOREA HOT SPOT—Symbolic of the change in Korea's weather is the little stove that Military Policeman Cpl. Cecil Amaker of North, S. C., uses to help ward off autumn chills while directing traffic somewhere in the war zone. Amaker is a member of the 24th Division's MP outfit.

An estimated 400 guests attended the open house after the parade and among them, besides officials of the fire department, were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly.

The truck was one of two recently purchased for the company. The other is stationed at the Rapid Hose Company fire station.

Johnson Urges Abandoning of Any British 'A-Bases'

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said today the United States ought to abandon any atomic bases it has in England.

The Coloradan, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, declared there is "no excuse for making the British people a target for an enemy attack. He suggested American bases in the British Isles might provoke an attack.

Johnson told a reporter that in any event no consideration should be given to such bases in any study of whether this country should extend additional financial help to Great Britain. Prime Minister Winston Churchill suggested last Friday that the U. S. give the "fullest consideration" to Britain's need for further dollar aid for her rearmament program and her limping economy.

A London source said a request for about $300,000,000 in new aid would be made. Churchill presumably will press his request when he comes to Washington sometime in January to confer with President Truman.

Churchill said his nation has "every need and right to seek and receive" American help because "we took peculiar risks in providing the principal atomic base for the United States" in East England. The prime minister added that as a result Britain had placed itself "in the very forefront of Soviet antagonism."

Johnson said, however, that the issue of additional financial assistance for the British "will have to be considered strictly on its own merits — divorced entirely from the matter of atomic bases."

Eastman Kodak Loses Paper in Two-Million Blaze

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Three general alarm fires within 48 hours—one of which still was burning today—hit Rochester over the week-end.

First and worst blaze was at an Eastman Kodak building where hundreds of tons of photographic paper went up in smoke. The damage was estimated at $2,000,000.

The Kodak fire started at 12:37 p. m. Saturday. It still was burning this morning.

Wary firemen who spent as long as 14 hours battling the blaze were called to a second general alarm last night when a fire broke out in an apartment building.

Later, another general alarm sent firemen to the Milner Hotel in downtown Rochester.

There were no deaths or serious injuries at any of the fires. Nearly 100 firemen were overcome by smoke at the three fires. Eighty were felled at the Kodak fire.

Probe to Start

Kodak officials said they would start a probe into the cause of the paper stock fire today.

An Eastman official said about 25 per cent of the company's paper stock was destroyed by the fire. An inventory will be taken to determine the extent of the loss, he added.

Ivan N. Hultman, assistant general manager of Kodak Park, said preliminary estimates placed the damage at $2,000,000.

The Kodak fire was confined to the fifth floor of a block long fire-resistant structure. A company official said it might have been caused by sparks from acetylene torches a maintenance crew was using to weld an air duct.

Kodak makes photographic paper at the plant. Huge rolls of untreated heavy stock paper were stored on the fifth floor.

Firemen confined the hotel blaze to the rear of the 165-room hotel, and brought it under control shortly after midnight. The cause was not known. Damage was estimated at about $10,000.

The apartment fire drove nine families to the street earlier in the evening. Ten firemen were overcome by smoke and three suffered minor cuts fighting the apartment blaze. The first started in the basement and worked its way up a wall. The cause was undetermined.

Adults' Apathy Blamed for Drop in Church Schools

Apathy on the part of adults and inadequacy of programs and instruction were two possible reasons for declining church school attendance stressed by panel members in a meeting at the First Baptist Church Sunday night.

The Sunday Evening Study Club sponsored the discussion.

The topic, The Future of Our Sunday Schools, was assigned the panel consisting of Chester A. Baltz, Jr., church school superintendent at First Presbyterian Church; Kenneth L. Hick, superintendent at Fair Street Reformed Church; Mrs. Herbert Fister, teacher at Old First Reformed Church; and Charles L. Arnold, superintendent of the host church's Sunday school. Miss Ethel M. Hull, primary department superintendent at First Baptist Church, was moderator.

About 25 Sunday school teachers and officials attended.

The Sunday Evening Study Club's planning committee, of which Harry T. Gumaer is chairman, is arranging a series of similar panel programs.

Three Boys Are Blamed For Tormenting Horses

Investigation by Deputy Sheriff William Churchill on Saturday disclosed that three boys, aged nine to 12, were responsible for unusual commotion among horses in a Binewater barn, the sheriff's office reported.

The investigation was requested Saturday morning by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Keator, who had been awakened by the kicking of the horses in their stables.

Deputy Churchill said the boys admitted tormenting the horses by placing a four-tined pitch fork, horse shoes with nails, curry combs and other items into their stalls. Authorities are undecided as to what action will be taken.

REDS' NEW AIR CHALLENGE

The air war in Korea has taken a new turn in recent weeks. And it is raising some uncomfortable questions about the status of the American air force.

Consider, for example, a raid over northwest Korea not long ago by nine B-29's. Russian-built MIG's shot down three—one third of the total—and damaged nearly all the rest. Though the numbers involved were relatively small, aviation experts believe this incident casts serious doubt on the future usefulness of the B-29 against jet interceptors.

In further illustration of the handicap this famous bomber faces in Korea today, on another raid eight B-29's had to have the protection of no less than 112 fighters. This huge ratio of fighters to bombers would once have been regarded as unjustifiable.

Plainly, it is now tremendously costly in terms of planes, men, fuel and money to send B-29's into combat against high-grade jets like the Russian MIG. By implication, the same handicap would face use of the larger B-36, a jet-assisted aircraft otherwise powered by conventional engines.

These planes simply do not have the speed they need to fend off the streaking jet attackers. The only alternatives to employing a heavy fighter screen are to use the B-29's at night, to send them out to bomb by radar in weather discouraging to fighters, or to bomb parts of Korea where fighters based in safe Manchuria might fear to go. All these tactics are being tried.

But the mere fact that they must be resorted to seems to be the handwriting on the wall for medium and large conventionally powered bombers. Air Force men are said to be casting eyes covetously already toward the B-47, highly touted jet medium bomber just now getting into real production in the United States. The B-47, however, is still a long way from readiness for war in Korea.

In the meantime, our airmen will have to sweat it out with what they have. They face not only intensified use of enemy jets but greatly stepped up Communist anti-aircraft defenses. We are frequently losing planes to ground fire.

Since we are employing our air strength offensively, it is natural our losses should exceed the enemy's. Too often this fact is obscured by the tendency of American battle accounts to lump Red losses together, as if there was no distinction between planes destroyed, probably destroyed, or merely damaged.

From the start of the Korean war in 1950 up to October of this year, this country lost 536 planes to enemy action and an estimated 667 through operational accidents—a total of 1203. In the same period, we claim the Reds lost 324 in combat, and probably suffered loss of another 300 in accidents.

There are many reasons for this showing: the greater number of U. S. planes in combat, their use in close support of troops (not matched by the Reds), the sanctity of Communist bases from our attack, the Red anti-aircraft batteries, and our offensive tactics.

But while it is plain why we are losing two planes to every Communist craft downed, this story of air warfare in Korea affords us no grounds for glib complacency over our superiority in the air.

With the future of our existing bombers in doubt, and Red defenses against all our craft mounting in effectiveness, we had better face it: We are getting a real air challenge that has meaning far beyond the limits of barren Korea.

THE BUSINESS CYCLE

It has long been observed that the ups and downs of business appear to run in cycles. It has been supposed that if the pattern of the cycles could be accurately laid out, business people could then forecast the future trend. Knowing the future prospect with certainty, they might then be able to influence it for the better.

One great difficulty so far has prevented success. There are so many different cycles, all at the same time, that so far no one has

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THEY ARE STILL AT WORK

It is a curious phenomenon that wherever I go these days, and I travel constantly to all parts of the country, soon enough political conversation veers toward McCarthyism. Is Joe McCarthy right, wrong or crazy?

The fact is that Senator Joe McCarthy has managed to get into the hair of those politicians who prefer smooth sailing and who find the issues that he has raised distasteful because they cannot be answered in principle even if they may be contested in detail.

For many years, other senators and representatives and public men have raised the same issues that McCarthy has now forced two Senate committees to investigate, but none of them got very far because they lacked his skill for dramatization and his courage to fight to a finish. The result is that McCarthyism is an issue in the 1952 campaign and no candidate will be able to avoid it. He will have to say whether he favors or opposes the employment of Communists in public positions. That is all that McCarthyism means.

Vice President Barkley, interviewed on "Meet the Press" last summer, fully supported McCarthy's data, giving figures that far exceed anything that McCarthy ever said. This is the colloquy: "Jack Bell: On the basis of that and other views which you probably have, do you think the State Department has done a good job of getting rid of Communists?"

"Vice President Barkley: I think it has. I think not only the State Department but all the departments. The public doesn't know really what has happened in that field, and I am not going to say it because the departments haven't announced it. I don't care to, but the public will be surprised if they knew the number of employees who have been dismissed because of either the discovery of their Communist leanings or the suspicion that they were leaning toward the Communist theory."

The Associated Press report of this statement said: "Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—Vice President Alben W. Barkley told a reporter today that 2,500 to 3,500 persons had been separated from government service after loyalty inquiries.

"He previously had told a television audience that 'the American people would be surprised at the number of employees who had been weeded out of the government because of suspicion directed at their loyalty.'"

At no time did Joe McCarthy put his figures as high as 3,500 Communists in the government. Certainly he never asked that 3,500 be dismissed for being Communists. He did not know where there that many, not being on the inside as Vice President Barkley is.

I have recently been having lots of excitement with the question because I have been trying to solve the problem as to how so few Communists and fellow-travelers do so much mischief. For instance, the intricate nature of the dockers' strike in New York, which prevented ships from landing strategic war materials in this port while our sons are fighting in Korea—and dying there—has not yet been disclosed in all the antagonisms over closing down America's greatest port. A few men did that, not as an act of leadership in the achievement of a social end, but as an exercise of force in a contest for power. Into this situation entered the underground Communists as wreckers of American industrial strength.

And no matter how costly this is to the United States and to the city of New York, the administration of the city has become paralyzed, incapable even of exercising its ordinary police power. The leader of the union insurgents, Gene Sampson, is the brother of the assistant to the mayor, Frank Sampson.

It is not necessary to be a party of large numbers to accomplish much when innocents can be used to do the work of our enemies. Interests are mixed. Men who would say that they despise Communists, and are sincere about it, play the Russian game to advance their temporary private affairs. As long as men will lend themselves to be used, they will be used.

The dockers' strike has no justification when Americans anywhere are hanging their lives for their country. It is not a strike against employers but a struggle for control of a union. The largest port of our country is closed to decide whether an obscure labor leader by the name of Ryan or an obscure labor leader by the name of Sampson shall prevail. The Communists know how to use men who measure life by personal interests only. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ELDERLY CHRONICALLY ILL

The life span has been prolonged by more than sixteen years since 1900, and physicians and anthropologists are doing all in their power to keep these elderly men and women in good health so that their later years may be healthy and happy. Thus we find a new group of specialists in medicine called periatricians (specialists in diseases of old age).

While most of us think of our elderly folk from the standpoint of their health and happiness, governments here and elsewhere are realizing that while elderly men and women are not capable of doing the work of former years, they are capable of doing some physical and also some mental work.

In the Second Symposium on the Clinical Problems of Advancing Years, Dr. E. V. Cowdry, President, American Association for Cancer Research, states that the government takes the view that anything which promotes international cooperation is worthwhile in that all that is learned of these diseases of the elderly (heart and blood vessels and mental and nervous diseases) is shared in a general pool. A great many of these elderly men and women are still useful members of the community.

Dr. Cowdry states, however, that there are many elderly who are not well and the object of the second meeting of the Medical Research Conference on the Clinical Problems of Advancing Years, is for this and similar groups elsewhere to reach conclusions, as far as this is possible, what best can be done now for these groups of chronic individuals. "This means that one has to think of social adjustment, one has to think of philosophy, religion, and every other way of helping the mind as well as the body of the people who have to face the music and do better."

It might be well to repeat another paragraph of Dr. Cowdry's address. "It is perfectly clear that if you can give spirit and occupation to older people, you will thereby not only make them a part of the manpower and womanpower pool but you will also reduce their burden on the medical profession, make the home happier and improve morale everywhere."

been able to figure out in advance what the total result will be. If it is ever done, another difficulty will be faced. If economists are able to alter some of the cycles the whole balance will be changed, and the result again might become wholly unpredictable. One thing which is clear is that things are going round and round.

There's But One Choice, Why the Hesitation?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Despite President Truman's 1948 whistle-stop campaign based on protecting the nation from big business, his administrators have now decided to put one of the biggest metal companies in the world in the already tightly held aluminum business.

They are awarding the cheap government water power from Hungry Horse dam in Montana to the Anaconda Copper Company, despite vigorous objections by Mr. Truman's own Justice Department that the contract violates the principle of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

They are also closing their eyes to the criminal record of Anaconda, whose Anaconda Wire and Cable Company was twice convicted of war frauds during World War 2 for selling defective wire to the armed forces—wire which, if not detected, might have caused the loss of American troops in battle.

Ironically, it is a small business firm, the Harvey Machine Company of Los Angeles, was about to receive an RFC loan to help put it in the aluminum business in Montana. But when Harvey's wartime record in producing navy shells was questioned, the loan was held up.

It was right and proper that Harvey's record should have been scrutinized, though for unexplained reasons Secretary of the Navy Kimball has flatly refused to give the navy's files on this case either to his own colleague, the secretary of the interior, or to the House investigating committee. However, this columnist, who has seen the files, can report that Harvey's record was saintlike compared to Anaconda's.

Anaconda was convicted at Fort Wayne, Ind., on June 12, 1943 for defrauding the government in connection with the sale of defective wire, was fined $31,000, and three of its men were given suspended prison sentences.

Again in Pawtucket, R. I., Anaconda was convicted Jan. 12, 1944 on a war-funds charge, with four of its people given 18 months to one year in jail and a fifth placed on parole for two years.

Remarkable the judge: "The company perpetrated these frauds with the intent to increase their profits without regard to the lives of American boys."

On top of the criminal convictions, the government brought civil suit after the war and collected $1,626,000 from Anaconda. Yet this is the company which will be favored with cheap government power, a tax-amortization deal whereby the investment is written off in four years, and a contract whereby the government buys virtually all its aluminum.

Monopoly Ignored

Other phases of the Anaconda aluminum deal are also interesting. When little businessman Harvey ran government doorbells and sat in government ante-rooms trying to get support for his aluminum plant, he was advised "Why don't you get a wealthy partner?"

Meanwhile Anaconda made various overtures to him, proposed a lopsided partnership. Harvey resisted. Finally the government served notice that the priorities he had received on materials, together with his power contract at Hungry Horse, would be taken away. Throwing in the sponge, he agreed to become Anaconda's junior partner. This means Harvey will be swallowed up by Anaconda like a boy eating an ice-cream cone.

Interesting Fact No. 2—The man who made the final decision for Anaconda was Manly Fleischmann, head of defense production. One of his right-hand men is Joseph Mulally, an official of Anaconda Wire and Cable, the same company twice convicted of defrauding Uncle Sam during the war. Mulally is a $1-a-year man, continues to draw a salary from Anaconda. He declined to tell this columnist how much Anaconda paid him, claiming he had nothing to do with Fleischmann's decision in favor of Anaconda, but is one of Fleischmann's assistants.

Interesting Fact No. 3—Fleischmann and other defense production officials did not bother to consult the Justice Department either in regard to Anaconda's criminal record or its monopoly position until after they had reached a tentative decision.

The past record of an individual seeking a government job is sometimes scrutinized by the FBI for months. But not the slightest check was made of Anaconda's war record until Fleischmann was called by a newsmen. By that time the decision to give Anaconda the contract was already made. A session was then held with the Justice Department to go through the formal routine of checking.

Remarkable a friend of Jess Larsen, the efficient but frequently discouraged General Services administrator: "It looks like the only companies that get big war contracts are those which have committed crimes against the government."

"No," replied Larsen wearily, "it's the ones who commit the crimes who have a hundred million dollars."

Washington Pipeline

Senator Taft has given the cold shoulder to his old campaign manager, Congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio. Clarence was too slow about rounding up delegates to the Washington and Baltimore newsstands were flooded two weeks ago with an obscene scandal sheet, Flash, printed in Toronto, Canada. It was so obscene that the first edition was stripped off the newsstands and the second edition was barred at the Canadian border. After his return from Korea, Geo. Omar Bradley thoughtfully took time out from his heavy duties as our top military leader to write personal letters to the parents of G.I.'s he decorated in Korea, assuring them that their sons were all right and doing a great job.

The Navy Secretary Kimball has assigned top priority to the construction of new navy minesweepers. They're urgently needed in the waters around Korea to sweep away increasing numbers of new Russian mines which are as effective as any the Nazis ever used.

The government seems to have an answer to everything, even that baffling problem that comes up in every family—how to stop baby from sucking his thumb. "Infant Care," the government's best-selling baby book, says it's okay for a junior to suck his thumb, even beneficial in some cases—if Mom is too busy washing diapers to amuse him. Lodge Statement Regarding Loyalty Checks Is Held to Be Correct

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 12—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is right when he says that confidence in the loyalty of State Department employees will not be fully restored until a bipartisan commission investigates that department's procedures and methods of weeding out loyalty risks.

Mr. Lodge can find backing for his beliefs by reading the views of Conrad E. Snow, chairman of the Department of State's Loyalty Security Board. Here is an amazing paragraph from Mr. Snow's public speech:

"Insofar as the administration of the loyalty-security program, by its methods of interrogation, its manner of conducting hearings, its decisions on individual cases, gives support to the public belief that the baseless smears of the demagogue are given effect in the loyalty and security program, it has cooperated in the destruction of freedom of thought and expression."

Mr. Snow's attitude toward the present program evidently is that he must give more attention to public reaction than to cases where "baseless smears" could turn out to be justified accusations.

The hearings are held in secret so nobody knows how the interrogations are carried on. The above paragraph has been interpreted by some government officials to be a veiled criticism of the methods used in departments other than the State Department, where Communists have been found, in contrast with Mr. Snow's assertion that since he took charge in 1947 not a single "present Communist" has been "found" in the State Department.

Chairman Snow in a letter to this correspondent takes issue with a recent dispatch analyzing the public speech of October 25. In that dispatch three quotations were reproduced, and in two of them specific mention was made of the fact that they referred to incidents since 1947. As to the other quotation, Mr. Snow says mention should have been made of his previous statement that he was talking only of what has happened since 1947. Yet Mr. Snow says that if Alger Hiss had been in the Department of State until after they had reached a tentative decision.

The present loyalty board procedure, he would not have continued in employment a single day after his acts were discovered. It was Mr. Snow who introduced the Hiss case into his public speech. In fact, he was attempting in the same speech to evaluate the harm done by Hiss with reference to classified papers and he gave the clear indication that he was familiar with what Hiss had done prior to 1947. Otherwise, he couldn't make the comparison he did.

This, however, was not the truly important weakness in Mr. Snow's speech. It was the fact that FBI information doesn't get the consideration in the State Department that it deserves. Mr. Snow in his letter to this correspondent confirms that FBI files do not get to him in all cases. He says:

"If an employee resigns during loyalty investigation and before his case comes to the board, his file is never even seen by the board. If he resigns after the case comes to the board, but before adjudication, the board loses jurisdiction, and the file is withdrawn from the board if it served any public purpose to discuss publicly individual cases, these files could be examined and statements made regarding the details of the investigation contained therein. This would, however, be no part of the function of the Loyalty Security Board, would be contrary to the President's order, and would serve no useful purpose.

"These 40 persons have severed their connections with the department, and their separation was referred to in my speech only to substantiate my statement that there are no known Communists in the department. I do not know that any of the 40 were even alleged to be Communists, and if it is unfair to draw conclusions without adjudication. In any event, they have left the department."

"The fact of their departure may, however, furnish the answer to your '$64 question'—as to why, 'although in every other important department of the United States Government disloyalty cases have been "found," the State Department Loyalty and Security Board has not found a single case of disloyalty in the department. Of course this fact should not be stated without the accompanying statement that the board has found and recommended dismissal of 20 'security risks,' as I stated in my speech."

Mr. Snow does not explain why the discovery of 20 "security risks"—admittedly they are differentiated from "disloyalty" cases—should permit readers to draw the conclusion that there have or have not been Communists in the State Department depending on the degree of suspicion created by the words "security risks." Nor does Mr. Snow answer the real objection to the present procedures in the Department of State, which is that a Communist may work in that department nowadays for months, then be investigated by the FBI and the moment charges are filed with the Loyalty Security Board, the employee is permitted to resign. He would not have been continued in employment a single day after his acts were discovered. It was Mr. Snow who introduced the Hiss case into his public speech. In fact, he was attempting in the same speech to evaluate the harm done by Hiss with reference to classified papers and he gave the clear indication that he was familiar with what Hiss had done prior to 1947. Otherwise, he couldn't make the comparison he did.

Mr. Snow is not qualified to answer this objection perhaps because he is not the person who read the FBI reports unless a formal hearing is held by his board. The unanswered question is what is really done with FBI reports in the State Department and why does the chairman of the Loyalty Security Board insist that not a single Communist has been "found" when apparently he hasn't read, much less investigated, all the FBI reports that have been filed in the Department of State since 1947 when he became chairman of the board. AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

S.S. Caronia—I confess that very lately I regarded the rise of socialism in Great Britain, in the guise of "planned economy" and behind the false front of their Labor party, as the exclusive hard luck of the British people and strictly their own business. I now realize however, and I warn you, that there is afoot an international Socialist conspiracy quite as dangerous as the International Communist conspiracy and differing from the Communist conspiracy only in unimportant particulars.

Walter Reuther, the president of the United Auto Workers of the CIO, and David Dubinsky, the president of the Garment Workers' Union, are two of the most aggressive promoters of this design against our constitutional freedoms and the very form of our government.

Reuther is the candidate of this conspiracy for President of the United States in 1956 or 1960. Dubinsky is not a native and therefore, is ineligible and he keeps out of the public eye, or ear, because he has never been able to learn to speak the language of our country without a thick foreign brogue. Strangers would laugh at him. Dubinsky really admits this. Nevertheless, he is ingenious and tireless of his union as a "bargaining" agent of his subjects with their employers. I have related that he has set up his own "foreign policy" with his own foreign minister, his "ambassador in Europe" and his "well coordinated" and "labor network" of "six envoys in the east and west" from Formosa to Latin-America. There is much more detail to be revealed in due course.

These people have everything in common with the British Socialists who called their Socialist party the Labor party and called their socialism planned economy. As of now they are using the Democratic party just as the British Socialists used the old Liberal party until they were strong enough to organize their own Labor party. The British Liberal party is now a futile minority party drained of its vitality by the parasites who exploited its respectable title and reaping reputations. The Reuther-Dubinsky Socialists may yet discard the Democratic party and take on another title, possibly Labor or Farmer-Labor. But they will not call themselves a Socialist party because the word "Socialist" has an unfavorable political reputation and they will call their "socialism" planned economy. Indeed that is what they are calling it now.

Unknown to most Americans these Socialists during the years since the war have been carrying on cooperative political action with the British and others often under the auspices of the national

Q—Why do most insects have six legs?

A—Nature evolved the six-legged insects from the four-legged ancestors because walking on two pairs of legs is not efficient for a small animal encased in an external skeleton.

Q—What eight Presidents of the United States served less than one term?

A—William Henry Harrison, John Tyler, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, James A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur, and Warren G. Harding.

Believe It or Not!

On July 29, 1916, one of the worst forest fires in Northern Ontario cut a 50 mile swath through the towns of Cochrane, Matheson and Ramore leaving 252 charred bodies in its wake. When the survivors returned to Matheson the first thing they saw was the flag — and it was at half mast. The fire had burned the ropes and the flag slipped down the pole until caught by a knot in the top pulley. In an almost unbelievable coincidence fate had reared its own tribute to the 252 persons it had destroyed.

Jacoby on Canasta

Here's How Five Can Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

What do you do with five Canasta players? One solution is to send one of them to the movies. Another is to have the players take turns sitting out.

For example, suppose the family gets together for a game and that they cut cards. It happens that the three highest cards are cut by Father, Grandpa, and Junior; the two lowest cards are cut by Mother and Grandma. Let's suppose that the three males cut cards that rank in the order of their age—Grandpa being highest, and Junior lowest.

The males play against the females in this case (the three high against the two low). Junior sits out for the first hand, and the other four play. At the end of the first hand, Father sits on the bench, and Junior goes in. At the end of the second hand, Grandpa comes out, and Father takes his place. That rotation continues until the game ends. Mother and Grandma remain partners throughout the game.

That is simple enough, of course, but what can you do if all five want to play every single hand? There is no regular way for all five to do so. However, I have just received a very interesting letter from William R. Coley, of Pittsburgh, in which he describes a way for all five to play.

There has to be a team of three against a team of two, as in the method just outlined. Let's suppose that the same family is playing and that the men cut together. No matter where the two women sit, there will be two men sitting together. In other words, one man will be in a position to discard directly to his partner.

What's more, the three men will get three cards per round, while the two women will get only two cards. These are important advantages, and there must be a suitable counter-balance to make the game fairly even.

Mr. Coley suggests that the team of two be dealt 17 cards each, while the team of three get only the normal 11 cards. The six extra cards make it much easier to make the initial meld, particularly a meld of 120 points. Thus the two partners have a chance to meld early and get into melding-out position without much delay.

If the two partners fail to meld out quickly, their three opponents have the advantage. One of them should easily win the discard pile since he will be getting helpful discards from a partner directly at his right. From that point on, they should be able to control the discard pile.

Sounds like an interesting way to play. Remember, however, that it's not an official rule.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

As I have said before, "readers of this column are wonderful." In the Saturday evening column of Nov. 3, 1951, Nat Coyna of 230 William St., New York asked about a poem which he thought appeared in the Ulster and Delaware booklet of 1917. He said he had inquired many other places about the poem but could find nothing. In no time at all, Herman Boyle of Route 1, Box 170, Kingston, N. Y., came down and showed me an Ulster and Delaware R.R. booklet dated 1903 in which the poem Nat Coyna speaks of appears, as well as another poem he mentions. It is on page 19 of the 190 page booklet which is called "The Catskill Mts." It lists all the hotels and rates and many are illustrated. I hope the two gentlemen are able to contact each other and clear up the mystery of those poems.

Mr. Boyle also brought down a book called "Panorama of the Hudson," dated 1906. The entire river front is given in long and narrow pictures, giving east and west banks. Near Kingston you can see all the ice houses, that have since burned down. There are several good shots of Kingston Point taken from the Hudson. No doubt old river boatmen would know every spot. I have never seen such illustrations, no doubt taken from good photographs. I remember Bill Longyear used to have a camera which took those long pictures. At the old Maverick celebration in Woodstock, Bill used to take this rotating camera and after he wound it up, he would focus it and then dash into the crowd so that the camera caught him, not once, but twice as a rule, for he would move immediately to the end of the line so the camera lens picked him up again.

Mr. Boyle also brought a "Souvenir of Kingston," of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, Ulster County Day, Kingston, Tuesday, Oct. 5, 1909. Now with our 300 Anniversary coming out next year in 1932. One item in this book reads as follows: "Unveiling of the monument to the memory of Sir Thomas Chambers, Lord of the Manor of Fox Hall, and one of the Founders of the City in 1658."

On the opposite page the item under Kingston reads: "A small fort or rondout was built at the mouth of the Rondout Creek, October 11, 1614, the place being settled in 1652." It isn't that historians disagree exactly, it just seems that both dates can be celebrated. I remember as youngsters, we were always having parties. If it wasn't for someone's birthday, we found other reasons to celebrate. The Hudson-Fulton Celebration Book on Kingston has many excellent pictures. One shows the old West Shore trestle over Rondout Creek. There is also the Eagle Hotel on Main street, with its substantial porch on the street side. The Kingston Hotel is also there. It is said, it was used as a hotel since 1820 at which time the old stone part only was in existence. Wall street with St. John's Church, which was moved,

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

Eva Gabor says

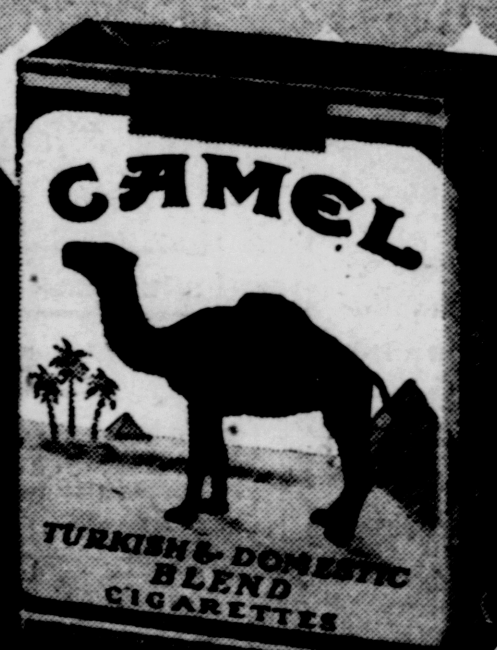

"I don't worry about my throat since I changed to Camels!"

"I had to be sure my cigarette agreed with my throat. So I tried most of the leading brands. I chose Camels for their day-in, day-out mildness and flavor!"

BEAUTIFUL EVA GABOR, star of television, screen and stage, must always be in good voice. The cigarette she smokes must agree with her throat. By trying Camels as her steady smoke, she found that with mild, flavorful Camels she enjoys smoking without worrying about her throat.

Make the sensible cigarette test — make your own 30-day Camel mildness test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days... enjoy the rich, full flavor — and see how mild Camels are, pack after pack... see how well Camels agree with your throat. Then you'll know why, after all the mildness tests...

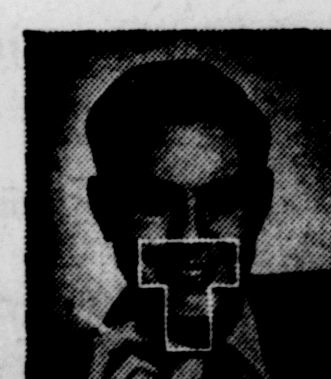

CAMEL LEADS ALL OTHER BRANDS — BY BILLIONS!

RALPH BELLAMY has smoked Camels for many years. Carrots after carrots, season after season, he finds that Camels are milder and more flavorful than any other cigarette he's ever smoked!

MARGUERITE PIAZZA, TV and opera star, made the 30-day Camel test under the supervision of a good throat specialist. He found no throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

YOUR PROVING GROUND for a cigarette is your "T-Zone" — T for Throat, T for Taste. Tom C. Jones is your "T-Zone" for 30 days. See why Camel is America's most popular cigarette!

Mass Killing

Billings, Mont. (AP) — Range-riding is more than just watching the dogs: Frank Hendren killed 665 rattlesnakes in six days while at work for a livestock company. He found them gathering in a basin, piled in bunches of 18 to 20 getting ready to den up for the winter. Hendren used a 1x4 board about 5 feet long to toss them away from their holes. Then he clubbed them to death. He noticed the board to keep count.

Taylors Are Busy In Tobacco Land

Last year he was Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor, director of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic and the Kingston Laboratory. This year he is just plain Spot Taylor to his neighbors in North Carolina's tobacco country, according to a dispatch in the Twin City Sentinel, Winston-Salem.

When Dr. Taylor resigned his positions here, he told The Freeman he and his wife, Dr. M. Elizabeth Moore, planned to return to his home in Danbury, and enjoy a respite from their medical work. Later on, he said, they would tackle the job of providing medical care in the Danbury section, now badly in need of physicians.

That his announced plans are materializing is indicated by the article in the Nov. 4 issue of the Twin City Sentinel. Dated Danbury, the article by Bill McIlwain reports:

"Some 700 miles away, at Kingston, N. Y., he left behind his coat, necktie and the formal 'Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor—pathologist.' Now, he's Spot Taylor—tobacco man."

The article points out that Dr. Taylor was raised on 4,000 acres of land near Danbury. He left home when he was 19 to get a college education, and never returned until this spring.

McIlwain wrote that Dr. Taylor told him, "Don't know as if I'll ever put on another necktie."

At present, the Taylors are living in a house trailer, "just down the mountain from Hanging Rock," the article states. They are planning to build a house nearby.

"He figures he and his wife will keep their fingers in medicine—but it won't be on the full time, pushing basis of past years," according to the article.

Hollywood Movie Star—Will you marry me, darling? I want to make my wife jealous.

Man—When I bought this dog you said he was splendid for rats. Why, he won't touch them.

Pet Shop Man—Well, ain't that splendid for rats?

Don't Quit—

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will

When the road you're treading seems all uphill,

When the funds are low and the debts are high,

And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,

When care is pressing you down a bit,

Rest: If you must—but never quit.

Life is queer, with its twists and turns,

As every one of us sometimes learns.

And many a failure turns about

When he might have won if he'd stuck it out.

Stick to your task, though the pace seems slow,

You may succeed with another blow.

Often the goal is nearer than

It seems to a faint and faltering man.

Often the struggler has given up

When he might have captured the victor's cup.

And he leaned back, when the night slipped down,

How close he was to the golden crown.

So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—

It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

Ancient Plants Told To Ulster Club

Plants of ancient times were outlined in a lengthy paper presented by Mrs. Harold King at the final meeting of the Ulster Garden Club last week in the home of Mrs. Carlton Preston.

Mythology

In dealing with her subject, Mrs. King described numerous plants and in a most interesting manner, their mythological symbolism. "Typical of this," said Mrs. King, "is the laurel tree, sacred to Apollo who is said to have fallen in love with Daphne, daughter of the River-god Peneus. The nymph fled from Apollo's embraces, the god pursued her, and as the maiden's strength failed she called on her father to save her, saying 'Open the earth for me or change my form which has brought me into such danger.' Immediately a stiffness seized her limbs, her arms became branches, and her hair leaves. The god sadly admitted this defeat, but swore the laurel tree should ever be sacred to him and that its foliage should always be green. The laurel in ancient times was an emblem of triumph, a symbolism that has come down to us in the expression 'he wears his laurels lightly.' From its association with divine protection it was often planted before the doors of Greek houses and the Roman emperor Tiberius always wore a laurel wreath during a thunder storm. The crackling of laurel leaves in the holy flame during a sacrifice was considered a lucky omen."

In like manner, Mrs. King related the fascinating stories of the oak, olive and other trees as well as the low growing shrubs, including the ivy and myrtle, and some of the ancient herbs.

Her story was interspersed with appropriate sonnets, many of which were written centuries ago. Significant of the extensive research done in preparing her paper was the inclusion of the numerous flowers having mythological association.

Then and Now

Concluding, Mrs. King said, "but if the feeling for nature was different among the Greeks, the law of Nature was the same then as now for 'she replenishes one thing out of another' as the Roman poet says. It brings the past close to us to learn that girls wore flowers in their hair to charm their sweethearts as girls do now, that the same flowers gave delight to Sappho that please us now, that while men come and go the beauty of the world remains the same, giving enchantment to us now and to future generations as it did more than two thousand years ago."

Committee chairmen for the next year were announced and are: Mrs. Harold King, membership; Mrs. Clarence Hansen, horticulture; Mrs. William Y. Boyd, exhibits; Mrs. Mortimer Downer, board of gardeners; Mrs. Charles Arnold, tercentenary; Mrs. Herbert Shultz, conservation; Mrs. E. C. Reed, planting; and Mrs. Herbert Cutler, publicity.

The hostess served refreshments following the meeting. Mrs. William A. Warren and Mrs. Gerard Betz assisted Mrs. Preston by pouring.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

RIGHT THAT HE SHOULD PAY

A young girl writes: "Two weeks ago my boy friend and I were out driving in my car which I had asked him to drive. When he passed a right light, he was given a ticket with a notice to appear in court. After the usual routine proceedings he was fined $10, which he paid. I didn't think anything at all about this until I told my mother that he paid the fine. She was shocked that I would let him do this and thinks that since it was my car I should have paid the fine. Do you think I should reimburse him for this since I asked him to drive for me?"

Since it was he, the driver, who committed the fault, it is only fair that he be the one to pay the fine.

Saying "No" to a Pest

Dear Mrs. Post: What can I say to a man who persists in asking me to go out with him? I don't want to be rude, but I have no intention of going anywhere with him—ever!

Answer: If he continues to persist in spite of polite refusals, you may finally have to resort to such frankness as having to say, "Please don't ask me any more because I am sorry I really do not care to go out with you."

Golden Wedding Couple

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Neither of them are too well and it would be quite a strain on them to stand for any length of time. Under the circumstances, would it be proper for them to be seated just inside the door of entrance to receive the guests?

Answer: Yes. And if you arrange a very high seat, their guests would not be conscious of having to stoop over in order to shake hands with them.

Unnecessary to Reply

Dear Mrs. Post: Does an invitation to a wedding ceremony in church with a breakfast following at a Country Club require an answer, when no R.s.v.p. is included on the invitation? Answer: Lacking R.s.v.p. means no reply is ex-acted.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Should your question be wearing jewelry, or should gloves be worn with an evening dress, you will find the answer in leaflet E-35, "The Well-dressed Woman." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Lucky Escape
Minot, N. D. (AP)—A motorist, Ray Etzler, pinned beneath his overturned truck, jacked up and freed himself all by his lonesome. The Butte, N. D., man was driving with his wife and small daughter when the truck overturned on a slippery road. Etzler was thrown from the machine and pinned under the overturned truck. Etzler managed to get a hand free and reached the jack carried in the truck. With his one free hand, he carefully jacked the machine off his body enough to allow him to escape. He then freed his wife and daughter.

administration in Washington. During this time the international Communist conspiracy has become more and more unpopular and these people, Reuther, Dubinsky and their domestic and international machine, have been as loud as any Red-baiter in their abuse of the dirty dogs of the Kremlin. But all this time they too have been developing an international organization, financing their work through the unions.

Only a few months ago, Reuther's union decided to levy an assessment on its subjects which would raise a political attack fund for "educational" work of $150,000 every year. John L. Lewis proposed that 40 of the largest unions each toss a million dollars into a "mutual defense fund" to which he would add ten million from the miners' treasury. Dubinsky levies tribute from his subjects for international political projects of his own, some of which he does not pretend to account for. And the ultimate purpose of all these bores is socialism, or fascism, which is what the British finally got from their Labor party.

Reuther's union belongs to the CIO and Dubinsky's to the A.F. of L., but this is a trifling detail. Both are Socialists and they have established Socialist sub-states within their respective unions already.

The organization called Americans for Democratic Action is the advertising agency of this program. This is an insidious thing pretending to be neither Democratic nor Republican, but is actually a dominating force within the Democratic party.

Reuther and his brother, Victor, have tried to quiet down the fact that they spent about 18 months in the Soviet Union between 1933 and 1935, working in a machinery factory and found nothing to criticize at the time. Nevertheless, a letter from both of them to friends of similar enthusiasm was entered in the record of the Committee on Un-American Activities which described Russia as the "workers' fatherland." The letter said it was an "inspiration" to work beside their Russian comrades because they had always been strong for the Soviet Union and ready to defend it against the lies of reactionaries. It spoke of Russia as "our country" and rap-turously reported that huge pictures of Lenin, not Henry Ford or the Roosevelts, greeted the workers on every turn.

Their comrades of the Red army guarded the works against sabotage by counter-revolutionists and the Reuther brothers never had seen anything so inspiring. "Carry on the fight for a Soviet America" was the closing line.

There is much too much fact and interpretation to be conveyed in a few stories to an American public which has been almost stupefied by shocking revelations of corruption and treachery within the government and the union movement as well. It is enough to satisfy me if I can establish for a start an understanding that the real menace now, because it is making dangerous progress, is the menace of international socialism rather than the communism of the Russian Internationale.

It is enough for the time being to show that the men who have made such a terrible failure of government under the Labor party in Britain, wiping out with brutal casualness ancient liberties which many of the forebears of the present generation bled and died for, are international political partners of Reuther, Dubinsky and their partners in the stealthy organization called Americans for Democratic Action. Many of these men and women have spectacular records of association with notorious Communist fronts. But, after all, it would be foolish of an advocate for Marxian socialism to defeat himself by defending the Communist party or communism or even socialism against their present unpopularity. It is much easier to plump for planned economy under the title of Americans for Democratic Action.

The Mature Parent

To Instill Ambition Takes Real Maturity

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Once, I was taken by a friend to visit the home of a world-famous actress. She was wonderful—a flashing, dark woman in her late 50s who reflected the attention her guests lavished on her with many shades of voice and gesture, just as the beads on her magnificent gowns reflected the lights of the room. Entranced, I could scarcely take my eyes away from her long enough to say "Thank you" to a faded, thin woman in black who handed me my coffee.

Later, I said to my friend, "Who was that quiet, tired-looking person in the black dress? Just one of the satellites—or her secretary?"

My friend stared at me. "Oh, you mean F—? I thought I had told you. That was Madame's daughter."

We are not all world-famous actresses. But some of us are successful business and professional people. Some of us have made a lot of money so that our friends, relatives and neighbors are pretty impressed. Others of us have not made a lot of money, but get a pretty good share of respect and envy for what we have got. We have found our niche in the scheme, know the score and take other people's approval as something we have coming to us.

But let's be sure we don't use our own success to discourage our children's desire to go forward.

I know a father, a successful engineer, who is constantly complaining about his adolescent son's lack of ambition.

"What do you do with a 16-year-old boy who doesn't know what he wants to do with his life?" he asks his friends. Because he is successful and rich, nobody ever dares to say to him, "Your son hasn't decided what he wants to do with his life because he's afraid to do anything with it. He's scared to death it may not be as impressive a production as yours has been."

Nobody says it, so Summer after Summer, his son has spent his time beating his father at golf. Choosing a club from the caddy's bag is safe. Games he is sure of winning are safe. But choosing a life, choosing a career that might show him up as a dud in contrast to his brilliant father—that's dangerous.

WITH MATURITY COMES AMBITION

If we have a teen-age child who seems disinterested in his future, we should not press him for decisions, but help him reach out for the maturity from which such decisions are made.

It may be that what our dependent child needs to speed up his self-confidence is an independent earning and working experience. It may be that he needs a parent to show interest in his search for Summer job opportunities—interest that is not too heavily salted with references to the great courage, perseverance and wisdom that has earned his own present state of solvency. It may be that what our unambitious, quiet daughter needs is to be released from too-great admiration for us, by encouraging her and, at the same time, developing a little humility ourselves.

The future is a terrifying and mysterious thing to the young, and don't let them tell you different. They need every gram of faith in themselves we can give them, if they're to walk forward into it unflatteringly. If you don't believe me, remember the choked feeling in your own throat at your first job interview, and keep remembering it until Bill or Sally has landed his next Summer vacation position.

To feel that we have done well is a very cozy feeling. Sure we're proud of our proved ability to take our responsibilities successfully. But all the success we have made will be dust in the mouth if it ends up by making a child fear he can't live up to us—that he hasn't got what it takes to do more than beat us at golf or hand our guests their coffee.

Port Jervis Ends Maroon Hopes for DUSO Tie by Scoring 20-7 Victory

Second Loss Drops KHS Out of Race; Newburgh Routs Blues for Third Win

A super-charged Port Jervis High School football team buried Kingston High's 1951 DUSO pennant hopes, 20 to 7, Saturday on historic Glennette Field, ancient burial grounds for many Maroon teams of the past.

In a crazy-quilt contest that would have taxed the imagination of a demented Hollywood script writer, the Red and Black scored its first DUSO victory of the season and shattered the last shred of hope Kingston had of gaining at least a tie for the 1951 bauble.

Meanwhile, Newburgh Academy's sensational Goldbacks ran riot over Poughkeepsie, 33 to 6, in Newburgh to maintain a perfect record for the season and for conference play. The only consolation for the Blues was the fact that they were the only team to score on Newburgh this season.

Maroon Off Form
The Port-Kingston contest, a pretty one-sided affair because of the Maroon's inept tackling and general letdown from its sparkling performance against Oneonta, ended on a bizarre note.

On the final play of the game, interference was called on Port defenders on a Kingston forward pass play just as the timer's gun sounded.

Port's jubilant players and fans immediately started the long trek to the Port Jervis dressing room, a good quarter-mile from the gridiron.

But Coach Bill Burke of Kingston rushed up to the group of officials who were stalking off the field and insisted, rightly, that the rules entitled Kingston to another play, even after the final gun had sounded. There followed considerable confusion while an official raced to the Port dressing room and notified the Red and Black they would have to return to the field to "complete" the game.

After a 10-minute delay, the teams lined up for the final play. It was a forward pass as expected. A Port Jervis defender intercepted and was snowed under on about Port's 30 yard line. A wild scramble followed and in seconds both sides were swinging fists freely and enthusiastically. The battle was broken up quickly, however, and the possibility of a major riot was forestalled.

Reds Score Quickly
Port Jervis was "up" for this one and settled the issue in the first 10 minutes of play. They moved 68 yards after receiving the kickoff in a crazy sequence of plays (18 in all) that included four penalties for offense and a 15-yarder for clipping.

Decker took a handoff from quarterback Lutz and romped 11 yards through the middle for the first score. Chase converted to make it 7-0.

On the next kickoff Carpio fumbled on Kingston's first play from scrimmage and Ryder recovered on the Kingston 36. Decker picked up 12 yards on a tackle burst and Quick went the remaining 24 on a quick opener off tackle. Chase converted to make it 14-0.

Maroon Scores
Still in the first period, Kingston accepted the next kickoff with Frank Fiore making a nice return to the Kingston 41. Massa and Carpio picked up four yards on two cracks at the line before Massa faded back for Kingston's first pass. He hit Harry Craft with a long spiral about the 20 and the big right end made the cross the last stripe unmolested. Massa's conversion cut the Port margin to 14-7.

The next time Kingston got its hands on the ball the Maroons traveled 49 yards and 2 1/2 feet before they came to grief seconds after the half ended and the ball just six inches away from the goal line. Key play in the sequence was a forward pass, Ferraro to Tiano, that went from the Port 48 to the 17. Al Carpio moved 100 yards off tackle for a first down on the 3. Carpio went to the 3, Ferraro was held for no gain. Carpio fumbled on the 2 but Rienzo recovered for Kingston and on the next play Carpio slammed to within six inches of the goal line on fourth down.

Crazy Play Scores
Shewchuk's interception of a Kingston pass and return to the Kingston 44 on the last play of the third period set up Port's third touchdown. Lutz fumbled on the Kingston 35 but Decker recovered for the Raiders and then slammed to the 27th for a first down. Then followed one of the craziest plays of the day.

Lutz faded back to pass and hit Shewchuk on about the 20. The latter tossed a lateral to Quick, who fumbled the toss, had it bounce on a beautiful hop in front of him, picked it up and scampered the rest of the way untouched to make it 20-0. The try for conversion failed.

The statistics reflect Port's superiority on the ground where they picked up 335 yards to a meagre 79 for Kingston. Gene Massa and Jim Ferraro managed to do fairly well overhead, completing six out of 14 tries for 127 yards.

Wrong Team Wore Green Says Leahy

By WILL GRIMSLEY
New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Monday's football wash—and if it's dry enough how about putting it in and putting it in some bowls:

Wouldn't advise anybody, except Georgia Tech, to start making train reservations yet, but here's a premature guess on how the major post-season games will line up Jan. 1:

Rose Bowl—Illinois vs. Stanford.
Sugar Bowl—Tennessee vs. Maryland.
Cotton Bowl—Texas Christian vs. Kentucky (which will beat Tennessee Nov. 24).

Orange Bowl—Georgia Tech vs. Baylor.

Three of the leading candidates for All-American backfield honors—Princeton's Dick Kazmaier, Kentucky's Babe Parilli and Tennessee's Hank Lauricella—are 1951's football "triplets," so to speak. All three have names that sound as if they should be violin artists. All three attain great greatness without preliminary fanfare. Kazmaier, who lives in Maumee, Ohio, escaped the notice of the Big Ten's football hotbed because he was so light. He still landed in Kentucky strictly by accident. A teammate from Rochester, Pa., was invited to the Wildcat campus and Parilli went along just for the ride. The Babe stayed, the teammate didn't. The Vols' Lauricella was spurned by Notre Dame because he was so small and escaped Tulane's coach Henry Frnka, a relentless recruiter from his home town of New Orleans. Now the three of them are making a lot of people sorry.

Quote-unquote: Frank Leahy, Notre Dame: "Michigan State wore green uniforms and looked as if they should be us out there. We wore blue—and that proved very fitting for the occasion. That's how we felt."

Because nobles of the Middle Ages had no banks in which to deposit their wealth, the Encyclopedia Americana says, they had their gold and silver fashioned into ornate cups and vases.

SUE HEINS RECEIVES STATE AWARD FOR 289 SCORE

Top officials of the New York State Women's Bowling Association visited Kingston Friday night to present Sue Heins, third from left, with a diamond medal symbolic of the highest single score rolled in New York state women's bowling during the 1950-51 season. Miss Heins rolled a rousing 289. The presentation was made at a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel. In the usual order are: Mrs. Arsecere; Miss Heins; Mrs. Jola M. Reta Frederick, a member of the state executive board; and Mrs. Chrissie Wilson, president of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association. (Freeman Photo)

Bowl Game Pairing Predictions Risky Wiltwyck Cagers Beat Dairymen

Only Georgie Tech Has One for Sure

By ED CORRIGAN

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Coaches and athletic directors of the country's top football teams—a cautious lot—were walking around their campuses with fingers crossed today, afraid even to think of the games coming up.

Every time they begin to think of the coming bowl games and perhaps start figuring what's going in the cash box, they shudder and think back to what happened to Southern California.

The big, powerful Trojans were the shoo-ins of the Pacific Coast Conference, especially after they bounced undefeated California, the pre-season favorite, several weeks ago. The coast title and the gold and glory of the Rose Bowl were virtually theirs.

But Stanford, completely overlooked before the start of hostilities, crashed the Trojan hopes Saturday with a 27-20 victory.

Now they're saying the Indians can't miss. But can they? They probably can beat Oregon State without much trouble this week, but the following week they go against California, which still is not rated a pushover. Southern Cal has only one more game—Nov. 24 date with UCLA.

Big Ten in Air
Same thing in the Big Ten. Illinois—another school overlooked in the pre-season dope—boasts a 4-0 mark after trouncing Iowa, 40-13, Saturday. But Michigan and Wisconsin each have 3-1 marks, and all three still have two conference games to play.

Illinois tangles with Ohio State and Northwestern, Michigan meets the same pair while Wisconsin goes against Iowa and Minnesota. If defending champion Michigan wins, the Wolverines won't go to the Rose Bowl, since a Big Ten rule prohibits the same school from playing there two years in a row.

It would seem that Wisconsin has the easiest task. The Badgers nipped Penn., 16-7, but Michigan dropped before Cornell, 20-7, Saturday, in a couple of Big Ten-Ivy League games.

Tennessee probably is the only team that can take things moderately easy—with the exception of Georgia Tech, which already has accepted an invitation to the Orange Bowl in Miami. The Vols, masters of the Southeastern Con-

Even if the slow starting behemoths from the Blue Grass should beat Tennessee, Gen. Bob Neyland's outfit would get into some bowl—Sugar, Cotton or Orange. Babe Parilli and his Kentucky outfit could do it, too. They trimmed Tulane, 37-0, Saturday.

Quote of the Year: Bob Tierney's: "The Yankees are the champ of champs. Any team that can beat our Giants like that must be . . . ??" How much longer can he retain his membership in the lodge?

The best hunting story of the season unfolded without a shot being fired. There were two. It seems they went a-hunting not so long ago loaded down with stimulants that firearms experts insist don't mix with gunpowder. Their chariot reeked with fumes of the deadly toxin and they rode several miles to the scene of the kill. Resting on the front seat between the mighty nimrods was their faithful hound. When the car arrived at the happy hunting grounds, the guy on the right opened the door and fell out. The poor beagle toppled out, too—stone dead.

Flotsam and Jetsam:
Bill McDonough, freshman tackle at St. Bonaventure, has shown such rapid improvement that he figured to start in Saturday's game against the Camp Lejeune Marines. . . . A new bowling tune "High Score Bowling" by Tony Sparando, the famous New Yorker, is now at the bookstands. Kingston fans who recall Tony's several brilliant performances in this city are sure that he's qualified as an expert. Sparando is a champion with many years' experience and he urges the common sense approach to bowling. In other words, he advocates teaching and improving on the natural equipment a bowler possesses. This is unlike too many golf and bowling instructors, who insist on making every pupil over to their particular type of swing or delivery.

The book on Wallace, a frequent performer in Kingston, is that he does well on the throwing end of a punch, not too good on the receiving.

Jimmy, a resourceful duck hunter, also has a gun, he says, that kills so far up he has to put salt on the pellets to keep the birds from spilling before they hit the ground.

Giant-Cleveland Brown Game Sunday To Decide Division Pennant in NFL

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—The American Conference lead, if not the championship itself, will be at stake Sunday when the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants tangle here in a National Football League headliner pitting two veteran powers.

Only one team has given the Browns consistent trouble since they joined the league last year, and that's the Giants. And if any team can stop the Browns' march to a sixth straight pro-title—they won four in a row in the All-America Conference—that's the Giants, again.

The New Yorkers won two out of three from Cleveland last year, but lost a post-season playoff for the conference crown by five points. It was even closer in their only meeting this year, with the Browns winning 14 to 13 when the Giants missed an extra point.

Cleveland (6-1-0) held tight to its slim lead yesterday by nipping the Philadelphia Eagles, 20 to 17, with a second-half rally, while the Giants (5-1-1) were turning Sammy Baugh and the Washington Redskins, 28 to 14.

Rams in First
Meantime, the Los Angeles Rams pulled into a tie for first place in the National Conference by smashing the hapless Chicago Cardinals, 45 to 21. The Rams (5-2-0) now are all even with the Chicago Bears (5-2-0), who lost their first game in six years to the Detroit Lions, 41 to 28.

In other games, San Francisco scored in the last minute to turn back the winless New York Yanks, 19 to 14, and Pittsburgh played headsup ball to defeat Green Bay, 28 to 7, in a battle of also-rans.

Traditional Games Spotted Saturday In Ivy League as Tigers Keep Rolling

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Traditional games feature the Ivy League card this Saturday with the spotlight on Princeton's Palmer Stadium, where the unbeaten Tigers entertain down-in-the-dumps Yale.

This ancient series, dating back to 1873, looms as another step in Princeton's bid for its second straight unbeaten season. The Tigers will be gunning for their 21st straight victory, their fifth consecutive Big Three championship and at least a tie for the Ivy crown.

In other league games, Cornell clashes with Dartmouth in a series begun in 1900 and Harvard and Brown collide for the 50th time. In non-league games, Columbia tangles with Navy in a 50-year-old series and Penn takes on Army in a series that opened in 1901.

Princeton stretched its victory streak to 20 games Saturday, smearing Harvard, 54-13. Harvard held Princeton to a 6-6 tie until the dying minutes of the first half when the Tigers cut loose and scored twice to gain the upper hand for keeps.

All-American Dick Kazmaier and Dick Pivrotto teamed up to lead the rout. Kazmaier completed 12 out of 16 passes good for 222 yards and three touchdowns. Pivrotto gained 152 yards on nine carries, uncorking an 82-yard touchdown run.

Lions Stop Big Green
Columbia remained a half game back of Princeton by beating Dartmouth, 21-6. The Lions have one league game to play. The victory ended Dartmouth's four-game winning streak.

Dartmouth scored in the first 40 seconds of play but Columbia tallied twice in the second period to win. Vern Wynnott tallied twice and Captain Howard Hansen once for the victors.

In non-league games, Cornell downed Michigan, 20-7. Brown lost a 28-21 decision to Rutgers and Penn dropped a 16-7 game to Wisconsin.

Sub quarterback Jack Jaekel and Bill Whelan led Cornell to victory. Jaekel completed nine out of 15 passes good for 133 yards and one touchdown. Whelan failed to score but his kicking played a major part in the victory.

An alert Wisconsin defense beat Penn. Line-backer Deral Teteak recovered a poor Penn pass in the end zone for a touchdown, tackle Bob Leu intercepted a pass for another and Pat O'Donahue tackled passer Jerry Robinson across the goal-line for a safety.

Rutgers snapped a 14-1 tie with two touchdowns in the final period to defeat Brown. Howard Ottley intercepted a Carl Leone pass and romped across with the payoff counter.

Yonkers Residents May Ask Reduction In Pay of Police

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Embattled Yonkers residents threatened today to seek a pay reduction for their policemen if the officers continue handing out traffic tickets at the current pace.

The summons multiplied after the voters last Tuesday turned down a $500-a-year pay boost for the patrolmen. On Monday and election day 73 tickets were issued, but on Wednesday and Thursday the number jumped to 1934.

Now some Yonkers residents suggest a new referendum on policemen's pay—this time a vote to repeal a $500 raise voted two years ago.

Meanwhile, officials here and in Bridgeport, Conn., are investigating to find out the reasons for the reported zeal among traffic cops.

Like Yonkers, Bridgeport drivers reportedly have been suffering from "ticketitis" since voters turned down a proposed pay boost Tuesday.

First Major Win For Tommy Bolt

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, the Texan who plays golf out of Durham, N. C., has "created some thunder," as Cary Middlecoff put it, and finally crashed into the big winner's circle of professional golf.

The 33-year-old Bolt, in his sixth year as a professional, has a $1,500 check in his pocket today to go along with the walking on air feeling after coming in with a three-under par 69 to win the $7,500 North and South Open by three strokes yesterday.

Bolt's 283 on rounds of 71-72-71-69 was five under par for 72 holes around the 7,007-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

Tommy, who's been on the tour for two years, has threatened before, but something always happened somewhere along the line to keep him from winning a big one.

He really had it yesterday. He quickly shook off his nearest rivals as he shaved three strokes from par with an outgoing 33.

Coming back he had seven pars, one birdie and his only mistake of the day, a six on 16 where he hooked his second and had to lay out safely. His tee shots were accurate, his irons on occasions brilliant and his putting steady.

John Barnum, the giant Grand Rapids pro who holds the Michigan Open title, was as much a surprise as Bolt in charging up to take second place and $1,000 with his 71-73-72-70 for 286. Barnum had to shoot a 75 Tuesday to qualify for the tournament as his record wasn't gaudy enough to earn him an invitation.

Love's Labor Lost For Cards' Jim Hardy
Los Angeles, Nov. 12 (AP)—Jim Hardy, quarterback for the Chicago Cardinals, had a special reason for trying to walk off the field alone yesterday after his injury in the second quarter of the game with the Los Angeles Rams.

His wife, who is expecting a baby in about a month, was in the stands.

So were his mother and grandmother.

Hardy's back and neck muscles were torn, but he refused to ride the stretcher. He walked a few steps and collapsed. The stretcher bearers took over and rushed him to the hospital. His injuries, while painful, were not serious.

Hardy is expected to be up and around in about a week.

At latest report, there were no complications at home.

Model L-110, 115-inch wheelbase, 6 1/2-foot pickup body, 4,200 lbs. GVW. Pickups in the L-110, L-120 and L-130 Series include 115, 127 and 134-inch wheelbases, 6 1/2, 8 and 9-ft. bodies, GVW's to 8,600 lbs.

This pickup pinches pennies!

There are two simple reasons why you save money when you buy an International pickup truck.

First, you get lower operating and maintenance cost. You get a pickup truck that is engineered throughout to do more work for less money.

Second, you get longer truck life. Even the smallest International pickup truck has the traditional stamina that has kept Internationals first in heavy-duty truck sales for 19 straight years.

You get these all-truck savings right along with features that no other pickup truck gives you. For example—the COMPO-VISION CAB is "the roomiest, most comfortable cab on the road." The Silver Diamond engine is an outstanding development of the world's largest exclusive truck engine plant. Super-steering gives you the maneuverability and ease of handling that make driving a pleasure.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Either Lead Gets All Diamond Tricks

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

"How should the diamonds be played in this hand?" asks a Chicago reader. "You need only four tricks in the suit to make the contract, so it looks very easy at the start. In our club we had three different methods, each with its advocates. How would the experts play this combination?"

The problem is not only to win four diamond tricks but also to make sure that East doesn't win a diamond trick in the process. If East won a diamond trick, he would return the queen of spades, and the defenders would then rattle off four spade tricks to set the contract. That would entitle South to sit in the corner with a nice high dunces cap on his head.

This danger rules out a simple finesse of the jack of diamonds. If South begins by doing that, East must win a diamond trick with his remaining king-ten.

Two possibilities remain. After winning the first trick in dummy with the king of hearts, declarer may return a low diamond from dummy and finesse the nine from his own hand. The other way is to lead the queen of diamonds from the dummy as the first play in that suit.

Either method will bring in all five diamonds as the cards lie. Moreover, either method assures the contract of three no-trump no matter how the diamonds are played. At worst, West will win one diamond trick; and then South cannot be prevented from taking nine tricks.

The difference is very slight. If West happens to have the blank ten of diamonds, he will win a trick when the nine of diamonds is finessed. West will not get a trick, however, if the queen of diamonds is led from dummy.

The differences are only 20 points, and it will seldom occur. Nevertheless, an expert is the sort of fellow who doesn't throw 20 points down the drain when it can be scored without the slightest risk.

So my answer is that the expert way to play the diamonds is to lead the queen from dummy to start the suit. If East plays low, you let the queen ride for a finesse. If East covers, you win the ace and proceed in whichever way is indicated by the way the cards drop.

Firemen Kept Busy By False Alarms

Eight false alarms between Saturday night and early Sunday kept police and firemen moving in virtual circles.
Three of the alarms were sounded from Box 2251, Strand and Abryn street, and three from Box 5541 at Clifton and Flatbush avenues.
The first from the box at Strand and Abryn street was at 9:31 p. m., Saturday, the second at 12:06 a. m. Sunday, and the third exactly an hour later.
The first from Flatbush and Clifton avenues was at 11:55 p. m. Saturday and the others at 1:33 a. m. and 3:12 a. m. Sunday.
The other two were from Box 2222, Delaware avenue and North street at 9:45 p. m., and Box 2531, Third avenue and High street, at 11:23 p. m., Saturday.
A call at 2:32 p. m. Sunday was for a fire in leaves on Foxhall avenue.

Father Demands

One boy killed seven of the enemy and remained unscathed. The other boy, well out in front of his men, killed two of the enemy and was fatally wounded.
"Marine corps eyewitnesses, deciding that each of the boys had exhibited the same degree of heroism, recommended to higher authorities the same award for each boy—the Navy Cross.
"Some time later," the letter continued, "the father of the dead boy severely criticized the President for his battlefield appointment which shackled the hands of American fighting men, and had killed his son and thousands of others."

Got Navy Cross
"Subsequently, when the decorations were awarded, the boy whose father publicly criticized the President, received the Navy Cross and the other was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor."

Guid, in the letter, said he had criticized administration policy by calling for the bombing of Communist supply lines in Korea, using the atom bomb; opposing the draft; and complaining of official refusal to permit his son's gravestone in Arlington National Cemetery carry the inscription, "Killed in Korea."
Guid charged in a letter to Sen. Ed Johnson (D-Colo.) in August that refusal of the quartermaster general to permit the words "Korean War" or "Killed in Korea" on the gravestones of men killed in Korea was an attempt by the administration "to perpetuate, even on the gravestones of our dead sons, the unworthy and cowardly myth that we have not been and are not at war."

The quartermaster general notified him, Guid said, that regulations forbid the engraving of "Korean War" on the headstone of his son but that the word "Korea" would be placed at the rear of the headstone beneath the official inscription if "I wanted to pay for it."
"Although I believe my son deserved no more than he received," the letter to President Truman continued, "there are indications of intent to discriminate against him. I think there was some business somewhere and that the matter should be cleared up by being brought to public notice."

'Intrigue' Is Charged

Moscow, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Soviet press, in its first comment on the western proposal for a Middle East defense command, today described the plan as another "intrigue." The Communist party newspaper Pravda said the command, sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey, would be created along the lines of the aggressive Atlantic Pact and intended to assure the carrying out of the aggressive plans of the American imperialists in the Middle East. Pravda added that Egypt and other Middle Eastern states have refused to participate in the plan.

Yale Professor To Speak at Bard

Dr. Greene is widely known as a teacher, author and editor. He is the author of "The Arts and the Art of Criticism" (1940) and editor of several volumes on Immanuel Kant and on problems of philosophy, religion and education.

Unemployment

of $320,000,000, and next year's to be about $260,000,000. The estimate for next year is based on the assumption that the general level of payrolls will stay fairly constant.
Without the Hughes-Brees change in the law, the state would have distributed approximately $128,000,000 in tax credits next year to employers with stable employment records. This would have been under the old formula providing for distribution of all funds in excess of $900,000,000 in the unemployment insurance trust fund.
The reserve in the fund was $1,028,000,000 last Sept. 30—the date in the old law for determining whether tax credits were due.
State officials estimated that by the end of 1951 the fund will grow to $1,075,000,000 and probably will reach a record $1,400,000,000 before operation of the law starts cutting down the balance.
